

1st ETHIO-GREEK INTERNATIONAL MEDICAL STUDENTS' COURSE:

“HANDS-ON GLOBAL HEALTH”

June 16 – July 1, 2010
Yirkalem Ethiopia

Dear Colleague,

- Are you looking for another perspective on international health care problems?
- Are you interested in exploring “another kind” of Medicine?
- Would you like to have a more complete understanding of the environmental effects on health?
- Do so-called “Tropical Medicine” and “Travel Medicine” interest you?
- Would you like to find yourself face-to-face with the most current and pressing diagnostic and therapeutic dilemmas?
- Would you like to be involved in a unique experience providing care for the most important diseases in the developing world?

The Master's course “International Medicine – Health Crisis Management”, in cooperation with HELMSIC-ATHENS, invites you to the first in a series of seminars entitled “Hands-on Global Health” which will be held in the city of Yirkalem, Ethiopia from the 16th of June until the 1st of July 2010.

The seminar will be conducted in English and, along with elective practice in a typical hospital of a developing country, offers theoretical courses on major International health and tropical topics. The seminar is open to graduate students, while a number of places are also available for doctors and accompanying members.
